Peter [REDACTED]

Switzerland.

Dear Peter Streicher,

I am Mr. Adolfo Nicolas, a Solicitor working with Torres Chambers Spain. I got your detailed contact information through your country's public archive, while searching for any possible relative to my late client Mr. David [REDACTED] who was a business magnate living in Spain for decades. Prior to the casualty of him and his immediate family I chose to contact you, which is why I must apologize greatly for the unsolicited mail as it is certainly an unprofessional way of approach to foster a relationship of trust.

Prior to my late client's death, he made a mutual investment deposit worth the sum of US$7,500,000. 00 (Seven Million, Five Hundred Thousand United State Dollars) with a security and investment company here in Spain. Against this milieu and consequently being the acting attorney present during the deposit, the security company requested I present the heir/heirress forward to make Claims of the investment deposit; otherwise, the aforementioned deposit will be reverted by the Bureau of Government Treasury.

Thus, I diligently embarked on an extensive research for a possible relative to my late client which proved abortive. Based on the instructions I got from the deposit/security company, on it been liquidated and made un-serviceable in accordance with existing deposit laws here in the kingdom of Spain, I proceeded to execute a pervasive research where I got your detailed contact information. Owing to the sensitivity of this transaction I urge you to keep proposal confidential pending when we work out modalities. My proposal to you is collaborating with me to be the benefactor of the aforementioned investment deposit. Though, I acknowledge, you may not be anyway related to my late client, taking into account that you both have a common surname is a positive factor as it can be considered a common genealogy. By virtue of my position, I can guarantee that we stand a great chance of success if you follow my instructions owing to the fact that I am not only an Attorney to the depositor and family, but was also present during registry of the deposit affording me the opportunity to have necessary facts covering this deposit which would facilitate the release process.

If you are interested, please indicate your willingness to initiate the process by contacting me via email or telephone to the contact details enlisted below for further clarification to enable us discuss the terms and conditions under which this transaction would be carried out.

Sincerely,

Adolfo Nicolas
